Dear Sir or Madam,

This is to confirm that UNICEF in Serbia has partnered with the organization Friends of Children of Serbia and that a number of joint projects have been implemented, some of which are:

- "The Code of Children and the Media" (1993) - guidelines on the conduct of the media towards children that should contribute primarily to the protection of children's privacy, protecting children from inappropriate and disturbing content, but also to the education of adults and children. The document was accepted by almost all political parties in Serbia.
- "Children's Rights Book" (1995), implemented within the framework of UNICEF's project "Education for Development, Peace and tolerance" with the aim to contribute to the implementation of the Convention on the Rights of the Child in Serbia.
- "Helping Helpers" (1999) - 20 seminars for child supporters across Serbia during the high emergency in the country (NATO intervention);
- "Children's rights in the media" (2000-2022);
- "Children Write a Book at School about the Rights of the Child" (2000), within the "Child Rights and Child Participation" project;
- "Nation Plan of Action for Children" (2004) – consultations with children and youth (FCS was the implementation partner);
- "Children and youth educational tourism in rural areas" (2012);
- "Children in action! Adults and children together towards a safe and secure childhood" (2017);
- "U-Report" - involving young people in addressing social challenges through the process of innovation and participations (2019), implementing partner;
- "Promotion of mental health of young people in local communities" (2022), implementing partner

In addition, UNICEF has been providing its support to Friends of Children in Serbia for the organization of events for children during the annual celebration of the "Children's Week", as well as for other FCS's activities directed towards the promotion and protection of children's in Serbia.
